Favor Advances on Grain

Grain Conference Asks Emergency Assistance

As a result of the Saskatoon Grain Marketing Conference, held Sept. 27-28, it is expected that the Ministers of Agriculture for the three prairie provinces will head a delegation to Ottawa in the near future to press for action on the decisions of the conference that 1) emergency assistance must be given grain farmers in the form of advances on grain stored on farms; 2) a more aggressive selling policy should be adopted by the federal government.

The conference did not favor a "fire sale" policy to speed wheat marketing. Confidence was expressed in the Canadian Wheat Board system of marketing grain. The conference favored a domestic price for wheat based on Canadian costs and the taking over of the grain carryover as a national responsibility.

The conference was called by the Farm Unions and was attended by representatives of the provincial departments of agriculture of two provinces, farm unions, farm co-operatives, Implement Dealers Association and the Chamber of Commerce.

Definite proposals for pushing the sale of Canadian Grain were made as follows:

1. Extending credits to other nations for the purchasing of grain.
2. Barter trading where necessary.

3. Canadian grain to be made available for famine relief programs.
4. An aggressive sales promotion by increased sales personnel and trade delegations.

5. Intensified scientific research to find other profitable uses for Canadian grain.

Lacombe Minister Buried Here

An oldtimer of Lacombe, Rev. F. G. Mathews passed away Sept. 21 at the age of 85 years.

Born in 1871 at Fareham, England, he came to Toronto from London, England, as a captain in the Salvation Army. He moved to Alberta in 1910, engaging in church work in different districts before settling in High River where he worked with the Foothills Presbyterian Mission. He was sent to the Lacombe district in 1918, where he was with the United Church. He spent three years in Toronto and in 1931 returned to Lacombe, where he resided until his death.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Grace Cowell of Lacombe and Mrs. Marjorie Woods of Comox, B.C.; nine grandchildren and 19 great-grandchildren. Predeceasing him were an infant son in 1899, his wife in 1931 and daughter Ethel in 1932.

Interment was made in the Vulcan cemetery on Saturday, Oct. 1, with J. R. Chapman of the Church of Christ officiating. Spodgrass Funeral Home of High River was in charge of arrangements.

Library To Buy More Books

The regular meeting of the Vulcan District Library Board was held on Saturday night, Sept. 24, with good representation from many of the various organizations of town and district.

James Chapman was voted to act as chairman, in the absence of Dr. Gibb.

It was decided to purchase more books, in order to establish a larger book fund grant from the government, and each of the representatives was asked to solicit financial assistance from their organizations. In order to further increase the book fund, plans were made to hold a bake sale, Saturday, Oct. 15th, in the Legion hall, from 2:30 to 5 in the afternoon, and mention is made that any and all contributions will be very acceptable. Mrs. Jack Marshall is in charge of the posters which will be placed about the town announcing this Bake Sale.

The Library hours are to remain as they have been: Monday, Thursday and Friday 4 to 5 in the afternoon; Tuesday, 2 to 5; and Saturday afternoon, 2 to 5, and 7 to 9.

Saturday Is Cub Apple Day

The annual Cub Apple Day will this year be held in Vulcan on Saturday, Oct. 8, and the support of the general public will be appreciated by the boys. All profits from the local sale of apples for this one day will go to the Cub for furthering Cub work.

A house-to-house canvass in town will be made by the Cubs, who will also be selling apples in the downtown area. Co-operating with the Cubs, local grocery stores will donate their profits from the sale of apples on Saturday, and out-of-town residents can buy their apples at the following business places: Red & White Store, Fleming's Grocery, Simon's Food Market, Jenkin's Groceries and Central Meat Market and Grocery.

Plan Landscaping

At their monthly breakfast meeting held in the United Church, the Board of Men decided to go ahead with preparations for the building of a retaining wall and landscaping of the church grounds. Preparations were also considered for the conducting of a Layman Sunday Service by the men of the church.

Mayor Allan Ill

The many friends of Mayor W. D. Allan were sorry to learn last Wednesday that he had been suddenly stricken with a heart attack and rushed to the local hospital. Best wishes are extended to him for a complete and speedy recovery.

Mrs. W. D. Allan, who had just arrived in Nova Scotia, flew from Halifax to be with her husband, upon receiving word of his illness. Mrs. Jack McElhose of Detroit also came by plane to be with her father.

More Snow Wednesday

Nothing Good To Say About The Weather

Probably the less said about the weather this week the better. The forecast for Wednesday was "a high of 60 above and a south-west wind." The result, of course, was a wet snowstorm that effectively dammed down the country.

Some combining has been done in the east country this week, but west and north, where the last snowfall was heaviest wheat was still too damp to combine this week and this storm will set it back another several days.

Plans School Track Meet

The first meeting of the local A.T.A. was held recently, with 46 teachers in attendance. At the meeting the teachers decided to sponsor a track-meet on Friday, October 7. The schools participating were divided into three groups, with the local group comprised of Vulcan, Champion, Brant and Carmangay.

Another topic of lively discussion was that of teachers' supervision of the schools. The Vulcan High School staff served lunch. Tom Clarke of Milo was chairman for the occasion.

The next meeting of the Vulcan local will be held at the Calgary convention at the end of this month.

Last Rites For Carmangay Man

Family gathered at the Carmangay United Church on Tuesday afternoon, September 20th, to pay their last respects to the late James Hillard.

Beautiful flowers banked the front of the church where Rev. Peter Dawson conducted the service. His words of comfort were based on the text, "In my Father's house are many mansions." The choir led the congregation singing of the hymns, "Abide With Me," and "Safe in the arms of Jesus," and as a special selection sang, "Beyond the Sunset."

Mr. Hillard was born in England, coming to United States in 1900 and to this district in 1921. He retired to live in Carmangay after farming for 15 years.

He was predeceased by his wife, Emma Hillard, in 1938 and is survived by three daughters, Mabel, Edna and Grace and a son Bert, all of Carmangay, and a son Tom, of Calgary. Interment was in the family plot at the Carmangay cemetery where Rev. Dawson read the Twenty-third Psalm.

Palibearers were all neighbors, being George Simmons, D. H. Russell, George Davis, Rob Clarke, Wallace Miller and Denny Burwash.

Martin Bros. of Lethbridge were in charge of funeral arrangements.

Ladies Auxiliary Plans Poppy Sale

The first meeting after the summer recess of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion, was held one week later than scheduled, on Wednesday, September 28th, in the Legion hall.

Mrs. Earl Carruthers, the president, was in the chair, and conducted the meeting assisted by the secretary, Mrs. A. Marsh. Fifteen members were present.

Mrs. Ray Fernley was initiated as a new member and duly welcomed.

Correspondence was light. Plans were discussed and made for the annual Poppy Campaign and committees appointed for this work.

A report on the activities of the Vulcan Library was given by Mrs. Jack Marshall, who is the representative from the Auxiliary on the Library Board. The sum of $10 was voted to the Library.

Committees for the next three months were named by the president.

At the conclusion of the business session a dainty lunch was served by a committee.

Financed by 5-year Debenture

County Proposes Graveling All Van Routes and Main Roads

Vulcan County Council held its ensuing term of six months, September Council meeting on Friday, Sept. 2nd.

The Chairman laid on the table the Municipal Inspectors' report of a heavy agenda of business among which was the proposed large-scale program for next year. Councilors report that the affairs of the County were being conducted in a very capable manner and the report was considered to be one of the best received from the Department of the County. While no definite figure as to the cost of the project was stated, the opinion was that the Council would need to borrow approximately $400,000 to complete a satisfactory program. This borrowing would be by way of debenture and would be repayable in five years. The County now has one large 12-yard trailer gravel box and two 6-yd. gravel trucks and, with the addition of two more trucks, it would be possible to haul a large part of this gravel without engaging outside trucks. It was pointed out that the graveling program could carry on throughout the year and it would be possible to complete the whole program in two years.

The debenture by-law would require a vote of 66% of the proprietary electors voting thereon. The Councilors felt that this large program could be done with no increase of taxes because the annual public works appropriation would be reduced by at least the annual payment on the debenture. Councilors were asked to bring in a report showing the number of miles of gravelled roads in their district and the roads which would come under the new graveling program. When this information is compiled, the estimated cost of the project can be calculated and by-law.

It is hoped that the vote will be held before the end of this year in order that the program may be started immediately after the first of the year, or sooner if it can be arranged.

Councilors also discussed the matter of chronic hospital services for the County. Information was given to the meeting that Mr. Carlson, the Chairman, Mr. McKay and Mr. Irwin had interviewed the Council of the Foothills Municipal District recently and discussed the provision of a suitable chronic and convalescent hospital which might serve the County of Vulcan as well as the Foothills municipality. Up to the present time, there had been no definite plans or tangible information regarding this, and the Councilors thought that some action should be taken to find out what the County requirements were and what the ratepayers wish. It was decided to send a questionnaire to all of the ratepayers in the County and ask their opinion regarding the convalescent hospital. This questionnaire will be prepared and forwarded within the next month.

Chronic Hospital

Council decided to call for tenders for the digging of the sewer ditch and disposal field laterals at the Milo School.

Information was given to the Council that the Alberta Association of Municipal Districts Convention will be held on Wednesday, November 16th, 17th, and 18th. It was moved by Mr. Carlson and carried that all the Councilors and the Secretary-Treasurer attend the Convention.

Lomond Nursing Service

Mrs. McPhail, Director of Municipal Nursing, Department of Health, interviewed the Council in respect to the enlargement of the Lomond Nursing Service area. Considerable discussion was held over this matter as the proposal was that area be extended north to the northern boundary of the County and also to take in all of the area east of Lake McGregor and the irrigation canal. Some of the Councilors thought that this area was too large and not attributable to Lomond. It was felt that the proposed area would take in area which would not use the nurse at Lomond on account of being too far away and also the fact that these residents use other doctor facilities. The nursing was also given that this will be the only class conducted here this winter.

Classes will be conducted by J. Lundy Findlay, qualified instructor for St. John's Ambulance, and will be suitable for those seeking First Aid Certificates, vouchers, medals or labels. A large enrollment is anticipated. This is the first time that classes have been held here on Wednesday nights and it might be necessary to change to a different evening later on.

Badly Injured In Tractor Accident

Conrad Lebsack, who factors south and east of Vulcan sustained serious injuries Tuesday noon, when a tractor rolled on him. Mr. Lebsack was hauling a hay baler behind his tractor, when for some undetermined reason the tractor went out of control, throwing the driver to the ground and rolling on him.

Victor Lebsack, who was in another vehicle a short distance ahead of his father, discovered the accident and succeeded in pulling the victim partly free and summoned help. Mr. Lebsack was rushed to the local hospital, where he was found to be suffering extensive internal injuries and a fractured pelvis.

Firebug "Somebodies"

If, in the next few moments, your house should catch fire—and one does every 80 seconds—chances are somebody was careless with a match or cigarette.

These firebug "somebodies," says Fire Chief Sam McLeod, can be blamed for one out of every three home fires.

They are the folks who unthinkably toss away lighted cigarettes and matches; they kill themselves smoking in bed and don't give a hoot if their kids play with matches.

But they are only the worst of the six home firebugs who start over 85 per cent of our home fires, according to Chief McLeod.

Here's how he would grade the other five on the basis of studies of home fire causes:

Booby prize No. 2 goes to the chap who doesn't inspect, clean and repair his heating system and chimney at least once a year—and thereby causes one of every four home fires.

No. 3 is the electrical wizard—one of every eight homes that burn—who dotes on frayed cords, overloaded circuits, misuses appliances and thinks 15-ampere safety fuses are for sissies.

Then there are the two guys—more likely gals—who, between them, manage to start one of every ten house fires; the kitchen firebug has a greasy stove, leaves unwatched burners going to ignite potholders and other easy burning items piled too near the open flames; her sister is the dilly who quickens fires with kerosene, dry cleans with gasoline and keeps these fiery fluids in her home in nice breakable bottles, leaky cans, etc.

Home firebug No. 6 performs his trick with hot ashes and coals—puts them fresh from the stove or furnace into wooden and cardboard containers, or dumps them on the basement floor next to wooden walls, old newspapers and rubbish and thus accounts for one of every 11 home fires.

How do you stop these home firebugs? Fire Chief McLeod has this Fire Prevention Week advice:

"One of the best ways is to have your home inspected for fire hazards by experts—your firemen. Your fire department can help you spot and correct those unsafe conditions which could cause a fire in your home."

Urging everyone's co-operation in the Home Fire Inspection Program, the Chief pointed out that the Canadian and International Associations of Fire Chiefs are sponsoring a nationwide campaign for just such home inspections as the most effective means for cutting the terrible toll of fire deaths among children.

Too Risky

A fond prairie dream—wide scale crop insurance—has suffered a chilling setback on the provincial level, reports The Financial Post.

But western farm groups favoring the controversial principle (and that includes almost all) now will concentrate their hopes on interprovincial co-operation and/or federal action.

That's the meaning of the rejection of province-wide crop insurance by a royal commission appointed by the Manitoba Government.

The blunt opinion that crop insurance is beyond Manitoba's resources, even though rejected by most farm spokesmen, will greatly influence the Alberta and Saskatchewan governments. It's known all prairie governments were waiting Manitoba's royal commission report with keen interest.

The report, presented to Agricultural Minister R. D. Robertson, says, in short, that an all-risk plan of insurance can't be financed by Manitoba.

What's Cooking?

Well, quite honestly, we don't know just what Mrs. Jones is up to this particular time.

But we are sure that we'd never know what was cooking all over this district—and neither would you—if it weren't for our country correspondents.

For most of them, it is just a part-time job. But the success of this newspaper depends in no small degree on their loyalty and efficiency.

True, it is not the responsibility of country correspondents to make headlines. But to us, the daily happenings and the comings and goings of neighbors and friends is the most important kind of news in the world.

We're proud of our rural representatives. They carry on their reporting jobs while still doing their everyday work, whether it be keeping house, working in an office, or operating a farm.

And if this newspaper is a vital part of our community and its well-being, to them belongs the credit. They help make all of us better acquainted with each other, sympathetic with each other's problems, joyous in the success and happiness of our friends and neighbors.

Remember, too, when you help our country correspondents gather the news of the community, you help all of us make this a better and more friendly place in which to live.

The roar of an aircraft engine during ground test can rattle windows and nerves for blocks around. So we're glad to report that aluminum has turned up as a noise-absorbing "honey-comb" in an aircraft company's test-cell. Hundreds of aluminum tubes of differing diameters and lengths, filled with absorbent, sound-buffing material, make up the end walls. And we are told that by the time the giant roar has bounced around in these aluminum mazes it comes out the other end thoroughly "baffled" and weakened to a hum. We expect there are lots of aluminum boosters around that factory!

Worship and Bible Study for the family. Sermon topic: "Thoughts for Thanksgiving." Nursery for those under three years. Sunday School for those three years and over.

Do's and Don'ts For Thanksgiving Turkey

DO allow ½ lb. of turkey for each serving (ready to cook weight).

DON'T overlook buying a quality product.

DO allow 2 or 3 days in refrigerator or 8-10 hours at room temperature to thaw if using a frozen bird.

DON'T thaw frozen bird in warm water and do not allow bird to stand in water—let cold water run over it.

DO keep bird refrigerated until ready to stuff and roast.

DON'T stuff until just before roasting.

DO rub cavity with salt (¼ teaspoon per pound).

DON'T season outside.

DO spoon stuffing into cavity and neck.

DON'T pack stuffing—it needs room for expansion (1 cup stuffing per pound of turkey).

DO truss bird neatly for good appearance and even cooking.

DON'T spoil the preparation by uneven cooking.

DO start the turkey on one side of the breast, turn it to the other side, then to the back.

DON'T stop there . . .

DO repeat turning about every hour for small or medium sized birds, every 1½ hours for large bird.

DON'T forget to grease the skin well with melted fat before putting in the pan.

DO baste with pan drippings each time the bird is turned.

DON'T ever cover the pan.

OPTION— the turkey may be covered with a grease soaked cloth or it may be wrapped in aluminum foil. If the latter method is used it bastes itself when turned.

DO watch time and temperature.

DON'T ever use an oven over 325° F.

DO check for doneness—turkey is cooked when the meaty parts of the drumstick feel soft when pressed with the fingers and the leg gives easily at both joints.

DON'T prick with fork—it will let the juice out.

MAKE A COMEBACK

I am afraid I don't listen to the radio very much, but I tuned in this morning for a very special reason. I heard a man with a beautiful voice do the morning wake-up show, that starts at 6 o'clock—a difficult hour in which to be bright and cheerful but this man was. I knew the reason.

Six months ago, the man was down and out, a human derelict who had lost the respect of family, friends, society and worst of all, his self-respect.

He had been an announcer in his early days, one of the best. He had moved into the Big Times and earned fabulous sums of money. Then, for some reason known only to himself, he disintegrated. He says he came to believe his success was due to his own cleverness, and forgot that what talent he had was not his personal property but a gift from God, given to him only in trust.

Whatever the reason, he sank lower and lower. All that he had ever achieved was taken from him. Then, through a friend, came a remarkable re-birth. The friend merely handed him a slip of paper on which he had written, "You aren't much, but you are someone, you can't do much but you can do something. Start trying—and leave results to God."

This morning, with many misgivings I am sure, a Western radio station gave him a chance to start his new life over again. His comeback during the past six months has been incredible. From washing floors in a restaurant, to street sweeping, to Department Store shipping clerk, to his old, original job again.

His remarkable progress from the bottom up should be a lesson to us all. Starting from where we stand at this moment—no matter how high that may be—we could all take tremendous forward strides by trying harder, as he is trying. And by leaving the results to God, as he is doing with such sublime confidence.

You don't have to be a derelict to make a comeback. We could all benefit by recapturing some of the faith and enthusiasm of our youth.

Home Economist's Letter

"Fall Fashion News"

Everyone knows that the fabric is the important factor in making a garment. This fall the big fabric story concerns wool. Wools are lighter weight and have more all-around-the-season value than they've ever had before. Many wools this year are washable, drapable or pleatable. Some new ideas are the quilted, ribbed wool, plaid and tweed jerseys—some of these are washable, just the thing for school clothes. The orlon-wool blend is in this category. Tweeds are very much the style this fall and because of their varying weights are being used for dresses, suits and coats. Many of the tweeds have a knit look. There's wool poplin that can be waterproofed and used for storm or rain coats. Felt is a wool and this year it's printed—palsies, tweed effects and best of all, solid colors in water repellent felt, practical in winter day and evening wear. Felt makes beautiful skirts for little girls and teen agers too. Mother will love it because it's so easy to sew.

Cotton is in the news now too! Gone are the days when cotton was just a summer fabric; for winter there are cottons that are dark in shade and some that are heavy in weight. Plaids are still popular particularly Black Watch and other clan tartans. Corduroy is a cotton and takes the lead in fashion this fall. There are gayly striped corduroys, florals and plaid. Almost any corduroy is machine washable, but do allow it to drip dry. It does not shrink and the color will not fade. Many are wrinkle resistant and spot resistant. Corduroy can be had in light 4 oz. weights and also in standard weights. When you're considering materials for slip covers—don't neglect corduroy. It is very practical and now is available in beautiful rich tones.

When it comes to party dresses—this year's favorite will be a filmy iridescent taffeta available in at least 10 pretty shades.

And of course there's a definite style this season. The long torso line is the strongest fall fashion and pleated skirts belong with it. Skirts generally are less full than they were a year ago with fewer petticoats, more pleats and concealed fullness. Colors for fall are a panorama of autumn beauty. Wheat shades, rust, forest greens, deep browns, avarado greens will all be foremost in this seasons fashion parade.

A LESSON

While you may never want to be a newspaperman, you might still learn a valuable lesson from my friend George. It is a lesson all the really important men learned at some time in their lives, but George was forced into it.

Determined to be a journalist, he talked himself into a job with the weekly paper in his home town; and soon was able to persuade the editor to let him write a little column of his own. Each weekend George would go to the library to get ideas for his column.

They always looked pretty good in print, but no one in the town seemed very impressed. Young George was very disappointed in the results, and baffled, too, because after all he was using the same ideas as Ruskin and Emerson and other famous writers used. Then why did his writing attract no attention?

He put the question to his editor who replied, "George, try this. Stay away from the library this week. Write a column about your young brother. Don't use notes and don't look for ideas from any source but the top of your own head. Then the next week write about national affairs if you like—but again, use your own observation. We'll see what happens."

The next two columns weren't very smooth, but Mrs. Brown stopped George on the street to say, "I clipped that piece about the young boy—it reminded me so much of my son. The town lawyer dropped in, later, to argue a point with George on international affairs and George learned from the lawyer."

"Why," George said to his editor, "is my stuff more effective than before."

There is a lesson in the answer. "Nobody pays attention to leakers — and you were leaning on old Ruskin and Emerson. Later, you will learn from them without leaning on them. It's only when you are a producer in your own right that you become a fellow-leaker with the great. That goes for life as well as literature."

Vegetable Storage

Gardens were generally better than average this year, which means considerable quantities of nutritious, healthful vegetables will be available for storage. Only a high quality product should be stored. A high quality product may be described as one that is well grown, free of insect injuries and disease and that is well matured and carefully harvested.

Optimum storage temperatures vary with different vegetables, from past experience it is known that root crops, cabbage and onions kept best at 32 degrees, and will stand some dampness. The vine vegetables such as squash and pumpkin store better in a dry atmosphere at a temperature of 45 degrees.

If vegetables are to be stored for any length of time it would be worthwhile to consider building a vegetable storage room in the basement. This is usually done in a corner where there is a window for ventilation. The storage room should be well insulated. Shelves and bins should be arranged to allow air circulation. Bins constructed of 2 or 4 inch boards spaced at one inch intervals, and separated from the floor and walls by 2"x4", on edge are satisfactory. Where possible the bins should be built in sections so they are removable, which facilitates cleaning out any accumulation of dirt or trash.

Fine sand may be used to advantage in storing beets, carrots, and parsnips. If only a few cabbages are to be used they may be suspended by the roots, however, if any quantity is to be stored piling on slatted shelves may be preferable. Potatoes are best stored in open bins having a slatted floor at a temperature of 40 degrees. Onions should be well cured before storing, they keep best at low temperatures, down to 32 degrees.

Air circulation in the storage room is important, ventilators should be left open as long as possible. Adequate ventilation is especially important during the first part of the storage period in order that the temperature of the stored product is reduced as rapidly as possible.

"Pointers on Pickling"

There are really only two main types of pickles: the quick process kind, which includes spiced fruits, vegetable pickles, relishes, pickallili, and spicy sauces . . . and the long process, fermented pickles such as dills, sauerkraut and the like.

The Makings—

(1) Vegetables—always use or buy fresh vegetables. Salt is the prime ingredient in pickle making—use common cooking or dairy salt, usually sold in cloth bags. Do not use table salt as it contains a filler which may cause difficulty by neutralizing some of the acid of the pickles.

(2) Cucumbers and other vegetables to be pickled are practically always salted, and allowed to stand overnight or longer. This treatment also prepares them to absorb the vinegar solution later, so that they will be firm and crisp.

(3) Vinegar, like salt, is a preserving as well as a flavoring ingredient. Cider vinegar, made from apple juice, is amber-colored with a fine flavor, fine aroma and sharp taste. It is most commonly used for pickles. White grape vinegar has the same fruit flavor as cider vinegar and is excellent to use where color is as important as flavor and aroma, as in pickling cauliflower and white onions. The white malt or distilled vinegars are by-products in the manufacture of yeast and they lack the fruit flavors and aromas of the fruit juice vinegars. These are most commonly used in commercial pickles because of the low cost.

(4) Sugar likewise helps to preserve and flavor pickles. Cane or beet, granulated or brown sugar may be used. Honey or corn syrup may be substituted for 1/2 to 1/3 the sugar called for in any sweet pickle recipes.

(5) Spices add flavor and fragrance, and help to preserve the food. To keep syrup and pickle light in color, tie whole spices loosely in a cheese-cloth bag. A few may be scattered through the pickles.

(6) Water—use soft water if possible for long process pickles. If water is very hard, boil, cool and strain through a fine cloth. You can also soften water by adding 1 tsp. of vinegar to each quart of water used for making the brine. Water containing iron may cause pickles to darken. Avoid using iron utensils for the same reason.

Warnings—
(1) Use only enamel, aluminum, glass or stainless steel containers—never use a copper pot or galvanized pail.

(2) Too strong a solution of salt, vinegar or sugar used at the beginning of the pickling will cause the pickles to shrivel up into hard, tough little knots. To prevent this, start with a medium-strength solution and gradually add to it until full strength is reached.

(3) Too weak a brine, on the other hand, is likely to cause soft slippery pickles, very unattractive and unpalatable. Usual proportion for preliminary soaking is 10 per cent brine; this means 1 pound of salt dissolved in 9 pints of water. The purpose of this brine is to draw out water and make pickles firmer.

(4) For crisp pickles, scald lightly but never cook.

Delicious Wild Duck!

Now it's open season and the men in your family may be lucky! If so it will be your job to cook the wild ducks. First of all it's a good idea to get rid of some of the wild flavor—soak the duck in soda or salt water for about one hour.

Here are some don'ts to remember when roasting the bird—don't add any water; don't season outside don't prick skin, don't cover except with foil or cloth and don't overcook. Roast it in a hot oven (about 425°). Baste several times with hot water at first, then with juices in pan until moderately well done (1/2 to 1 hour depending on size and age of duck).

To remove some of the wild taste place quartered apples, sliced oranges, slices of onion and a few celery leaves in the cavity—discard after roasting. A smart way to roast the bird without watching, is to cover it with aluminum foil. Bird will brown—be tender and moist. Remove foil the last 20 minutes.

You'll find this stuffing a very tasty addition to your duck dinner. Place one row peeled onion inside the duck and let stand overnight. Remove the onion and stuff with the following before roasting.

Rice and Apricot Stuffing

(enough for a 5 lb. duck)

3 tbsp. butter

1 cup chopped celery

1 spg parsley (chopped)

1 small onion (chopped)

3 cups boiled flaky rice

1/2 tsp. seasoning

Salt to taste

1 lb. dried apricots

Cook celery, parsley and onion in melted fat for a few minutes. Add to rice and dry seasonings. Wash and dry apricots, cut into strips with vice and seasonings.

A General Motors Value

After all, it really isn't considered good form to toot one's horn too loudly . . . HOWEVER . . . since the early months of this year, an unparalleled situation has existed and we can't contain ourselves any longer.

Pontiac—we've got to say it—is now up in the TOP 2 in automotive sales in Canada . . . second only to another General Motors product!

This isn't just a claim . . . it's a fact. Against the toughest competition, Pontiac has plain outsold every other manufacturer's cars.

It's a hats-off tribute to Canadian motorists, too, for their instant recognition of Pontiac's sterling worth. No doubt about it, they buy shrewdly and well where value counts.

Well, there it is! Pity, we had to be the ones to tell the story but that's the automotive industry for you.

Anyway . . . now everybody knows what more Canadians than ever before have found out this year . . . dollar for dollar you just can't beat Pontiac!

It's more than a trend . . . it's a torrent to

THANKSGIVING

In our message of last year we suggested that agriculture is not a business to be judged by the failure of a single crop but rather by the bounty of Nature over the years. As 1955 draws to a close we in Western Canada, surely, have much to be thankful for. There are, it is true, many problems to be solved but they are problems of abundance and not of scarcity.

It Pays to Pull to the Pioneer
PIONEER GRAIN COMPANY LIMITED

Trees are still available at no charge, to farmers who have well prepared summerfallow land. It has been found over the years, that trees stand but little chance

But in the end, many of the problems which loom so large to-day will resolve themselves, and others, no doubt, will become less important. Fortunately, early samples of 1955 wheat show a distinct improvement in quality and protein content over those of the last two years and the weight and quality of other grain also promises to be good. These 'quality' considerations are all favorable when it comes to making exports. In the meantime, then, far from being discouraged, we in Western Canada should rejoice that Nature, has this year again blessed our land so that we shall have an abundance and to spare.

To me, my freedom is the real profit from a day's work. And because I have freedom, I can choose the work that comes as close to my desires as is practical. Of course, I must make a living; that is a discipline imposed by nature—not by man. I'll gladly put up with the disciplines nature imposes; I'll be mighty suspicious of those imposed by men.

Try Textile Painting

If you want a hobby that's interesting, practical and inexpensive—try textile painting. It's easy to do and you'll have tea towels, children's clothes, luncheon cloths that just sing with color! You'll require stencil paper, flexible, hard finished cardboard; cutting knife or razor blade; small scissors; jars of textile paints and extender (Prang textile colors are good) — get the three primary colors first—you can mix them to get any shade of secondary color; piece of glass or old dish; heavy board-like beaver board and thumb tacks. Fabric—not too coarse or too flimsy, plain weave preferred, not a napped surface. Indian Head cotton, bark cloth or linen make very attractive place mats, napkins or luncheon cloths.

Then the procedure is to choose a design—trace each unit of it (that is each part requiring a different color) on a separate sheet of stencil paper. Allow at least one inch margin. Cut away the outlined section. Mix the paint (see below). Tack the material to heavy board with blotter below to absorb. Tack stencil into position before stencilling. Use very little paint. Allow paint to dry about 24 hours. Set the color by pressing with a hot iron. Materials are washable depending upon quality of the paint. When stencilling the fibres of the material should absorb the paint. Tap the brush more frequently on areas you wish to have a darker color. The texture of the material should not be obscured by too much paint.

How to Mix Your Textile Colors
Stir colors and stir extender before using. Don't hesitate to mix one color with another. Many unusual and interesting color combinations can be easily secured. Practically any type of mixing dish may be used. You will require a palette or regular knife. Always use a white blotter under the fabric. This takes up any excess color. These colors are very concentrated, equal parts of color and extender get full strength of any color including white. To proceed place a small amount of extender on a plate or piece of glass, then add color; one or more, until the desired shade and strength of shade is reached. Mix enough color to complete the work desired with this shade. When work is completed throw away remaining mixed color.

"Tri-Chem-Pens" provide the easiest possible way to paint textiles, they are used primarily to do outline rather than fill-in work. They are actually tubes filled with paint and they have ball points—so that painting with them is as easy as writing your own name. These are available in 17 brilliant colors including silver and gold.
